SUNDAY NIGHT PASSES OFF QUIETLY

PRECAUTIONARY MEASURES

RIOTERS SET FIRE TO HOUSE IN KOWLOON.

The situation in regard to the anti-Japanese riot eased considerably last night, and excepting one or two minor incidents nothing untoward happened, on the Mainland.

A Chinese woman, married to a Japanese, and residing at 3, Wai Ching Street, was molested and a large crowd gathered intent on burning the furniture. The timely arrival of a police picket saved the situation and the premises were evacuated.

The house, however, was fired by an infuriated mob shortly after 12 noon to-day. The Fire Brigade was called and were quickly on the scene. The extent of the damage is not yet known.

Furniture Smashed.
At about 10 p.m. a mob invaded a house in Woosung Street and smashed all the furniture and fittings.

Streets Cleared of Debris.
Most of the debris in Yau-mat had been cleared by this morning and the streets again presented a normal appearance.

Business As Usual.
Japanese banks, shipping offices and other business houses in the city are carrying on as usual, but with closed doors and windows and Indian watchmen outside.

Protective Measures.

The staffs of the various offices are being conveyed to and from business and their homes in Police vans escorted by armed Policemen. Protection is also being given to Japanese homes by armed guards who remain on duty night and day. Food supplies for Japanese are also being conveyed to them under guard. In fact, everything has been and is being done by the authorities to prevent a repetition of the recent outrages.

All Quiet.
Tram rides to as far as Shau-kiwan and Kennedy Town, last night and this morning, revealed that all was quiet in the various districts thickly populated by Chinese.

Demonstrations Quelled.
There were one or two spontaneous demonstrations in and around Bonham Strand last night, but these were quelled without difficulty by the Police pickets.

Police Pickets.
This morning Police pickets were again on patrol and crowds were not allowed to collect.

Work on Ships Uninterrupted.
The work of unloading ships in harbour and conveying cargo to godowns in West Point was being carried on this morning without trouble.

Lighter with Armed Guards.

Moored to the seawall opposite some godowns in Kennedy Town, just beyond Shek Tong Tsui, and below Belchers Fort, an R.A.S.C. lighter with gunners standing by (two with rifles) were seen this morning. What connection this has with the trouble is not known.

SANITARY BOARD.

Sunday Service in Chapel at Cemetery.

The orders of the day for the meeting of the Sanitary Board to-morrow include the following:—

Letter from Government relative to the amendment of By-law No. 5, of the Food-preserving Establishments By-laws.

Minute by the President relative to the resignation of Dr. W. V. M. Koch as a member of the Sanitary Board.

Minute by the President relative to proposed arrangements for the filling of vacancies on the Select Committee of the Board.

FRANCE & GERMANY

FRENCH DEPUTIES CHEERED.

PLEASING SCENE

M. LAVAL'S SPEECH TO GERMANY.

Berlin, Yesterday.
Immediately after their arrival at the hotel, M. Briand and M. Laval appeared on the balcony and waved hands to the crowd who were shouting "Vive Briand, Vive Laval! Bring peace to the world."

World Watching Conferences.
At a reception of the Press at the French Embassy, M. Laval, in a speech which was broadcast throughout Germany, emphasised that the purpose of their visit was to strengthen mutual confidence and develop sincere co-operation. He would not say that they could remove all misunderstanding, but they must consider all possible solutions in order to prepare for the better future mutual Franco-German relations. While both countries must be wise enough not to touch to-day upon certain difficult problems (doubtless he was referring to Reparations), economic problems could be dealt with immediately by a Franco-German committee to be established to examine all economic questions interesting both countries.

He concluded by saying that the world was alarmed at the unprecedented economic crisis, and was watching the Franco-German conferences. "Understanding must come because it will bring salvation."

French Ministers Entertained.
Franco-German conferences opened this afternoon in the Chancellor's Palace, and Dr. Brüning gave a banquet to the French visitors in the evening.

Impressive Scene.
A most impressive scene was witnessed when M. Briand placed a wreath on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Dr. Stresemann and a large crowd watched silently till M. Briand re-entered a motor-car when the crowd shouted "Peace!" and "Hoch Stresemann, Hoch Deutschland!"

Nazis Cautioned.
Dr. Hitler has warned the Nazis that demonstrations against the French would give the French Government "a pretext to insist on political demands which might be chiefly directed against Nazis."

Conferences Progress Satisfactorily.
The Franco-German conference which has progressed very satisfactorily so far will be continued to-morrow morning. It has resulted up to now in an agreement in principle to constitute a non-political Franco-German consultative committee, composed of high civil servants, employers and labour representatives, to seek means by which to improve Franco-German economic relations. It was specially stressed that any measures to be taken shall not be directed against third power.—Reuter.

Earlier Cable.
M. Laval and M. Briand left Paris on the 4.25 train on their official visit to Berlin on Saturday, and arrived on Sunday morning in Berlin. They were welcomed at the station by Dr. Brüning, Dr. Curtius and the Ambassador, M. François-Poncet. The meeting with the German Ministers was very cordial. On emerging from the station they were heartily cheered by large crowds, who repeatedly raised cries of "Long live peace!" The Berlin papers warmly welcome the guests, except the irreconcilable extremists of the Right, which reiterate a refusal in advance to accept any Franco-German agreement which may be reached.—Reuter.

Unlawful possession of 69 boxes of matches, suspected of having been stolen, cost Lam Ho-sheung $250 or three months' hard labour. The matches were thought to be pilfered from a shop in Austin Road.

"Dancing Like Dervishes."
Out of a crowd of about 40 people whom Sub-Inspector Elston said were "dancing like dervishes" around a fire of 100 large packets of matches, four Chinese were arrested. Two were ordered to receive 12 strokes of the cane, and two, fined $250 or three months' hard labour.

KOWLOON POLICE COURT.

Busy Day for Magistrate

RIOTERS SENTENCED

Sixty Chinese were arraigned in Court this morning in connection with the riots that prevailed over the week-end.

There were 41 cases, 14 of which came from Yau-mat, 12 from Mongkok, 11 from Tsim Sha Tsui, 2 from Kowloon City and one each from Hunghom and Shamshuipo. With one or two exceptions, these cases were the outcome of the rioting.

Canton Road Mob.
Sergeants Oram, Perkins and Riddell gave evidence of dispersing a mob in Canton Road at 6 p.m. on Saturday and arresting Teang Sai, Tsui Chun and Fan Tung who were fined $250 or three months' hard labour for disorderly behaviour.

Went to Look Round.
Six months' hard labour was imposed on Ngan Shing who was charged with being in No. 128, Canton Road at night with intent to commit a felony. He said he went to look around.

Remanded—May Face More Serious Charge.

In connection with an assault on a Japanese in Canton Road yesterday S. I. Elston asked for one week's remand when charging Li Pui, Ha Fuk-cheung, Chan Chiu-ng and Tsai Kai with inflicting grievous bodily harm and disorderly conduct. The victim of the outrage is in a critical condition, and it was intimated that the defendants will be charged with murder if the victim dies.

Pilfered Matches.
Unlawful possession of 69 boxes of matches, suspected of having been stolen, cost Lam Ho-sheung $250 or three months' hard labour. The matches were thought to be pilfered from a shop in Austin Road.

GANDHI & INDIA

SETTLEMENT MUST NOT BE DELAYED.

HOME CRISIS

IF MARK TIME WILL RETURN INDIA.

London, Yesterday.
If dissolution of Parliament is announced during the week, and Ministers are wanted to mark time with the Round Table and not take any effective decision, Mahatma Gandhi would wish to return to India. He declared this in an interview at West Bradford to-day.

Asked if he thought the prospects of a settlement of the Indian question was endangered by the present political situation in England, Gandhi replied that they might be if British statesmen felt a settlement with India could be shunted.—Reuter.

LAUNCH CREW SUE FOR WAGES.

Green Island Cement Company.

WILFUL DISOBEDIENCE.

In the Summary Court this morning, the hearing was continued of the case in which the coxswain, engineer and crew of the Green Island Cement Company's launch Hok Un, brought an action in respect of wages stated to be due.

The Company's case was that the launch had dishonestly handed over coal to another launch, on August 13 last, and at the same time the crew were guilty of wilful disobedience by being in that part of the Harbour, where they were seen by Mr. Taylor, who was returning from Macao aboard the Sul Tai at the time.

Anonymous Letter.

At the beginning of the proceedings, Mr. H. C. Macnamara, for defendants, handed up a letter received by Mr. Taylor. He said he had shown it to Mr. Rendall, for plaintiffs, who had stated that his clients naturally had no knowledge of it.

His Lordship: It seems to me to be a very pointless and stupid letter.

Mr. Macnamara: Quite so. And so, of course, it is gross contempt of Court. We shall do our best to trace the senders.

The evidence of Mr. Taylor, Acting Works Manager of the Cement Company, was then taken. He described seeing the company launch in a place far from where it should have been, on August 13. He saw another launch make fast to it, and something handed over; he could not make out exactly what. A few days later, the coxswain and engineer came before him, Mr. Cameron, and Mr. Oliveira. At first they gave a flat denial to charges of misappropriation but later, when informed they were dismissed, asked for another chance. This was construed as an admission.

No Case to Answer?

After Mr. Taylor had completed his evidence, Mr. Rendall, on plaintiffs' behalf, submitted there was no case to answer. He contended there had been no admission whatever of stealing. It had been most strongly denied, in fact. And even were the dismissal of the coxswain and engineer justified

CANTON MARU INCIDENT.

How Trouble Was Averted.

A DEMONSTRATION.

Rumours that there had been trouble on board the Japanese s.s. Canton Maru in harbour yesterday, were dispelled by an official of the Osaka Shosen Kaisha's local office this morning. It was stated that, at one time, there was the possibility of trouble when demonstrators insisted on the Chinese boat and No. 1 fireman of the ship coming ashore. But as the two Chinese members of the crew, in compliance with demands, left the ship nothing occurred.

The Chinese comprador and his staff, however, remained on board and sailed with the ship which was taken to sea by the Japanese crew. The ship was due to arrive at Swatow this morning.

It was emphasised that there was no fighting. The ship also experienced no trouble with the Chinese employed on board, all of whom were willing to carry on as usual. The boat and No. 1 fireman left because of the attitude of the mob. Their action was to avoid trouble and in this they had the support of the Japanese of the ship and the local agents.

LOCAL RIOTING

STATE OF EMERGENCY EXISTS.

PROCLAMATIONS

GOVT. GAZETTE EXTRAORDINARY.

The Hong Kong Government on Sunday declared a State of Emergency to exist. Proclamations were issued to that effect in a Government Gazette Extraordinary. By these Proclamations:

The Colony is declared to be subject to the provisions of Sections 7 to 14 of the Peace Preservation Ordinance 1886.

The Police Reserve is called out for service until further notice.

The Armoured Car Company of the Volunteer Defence Corps is called for service until further notice.

Except in so far as any of the Regulations heretofore made under the Emergency Regulations Ordinance, 1922, have been expressly amended or rescinded, all such regulations are confirmed and remain in force.

What This Signifies.

Bystanders and persons in the vicinity of disorders may be called upon to help preserve peace and make arrests and they must do so.

People are not to assemble in the streets. If they refuse to move on they may be arrested or moved on by force.

The Police can arrest people and can enter premises without warrants if they have reasonable suspicion that arms may be there or people who are planning disorders, or people who have run away from the Police in the streets.

It is unlawful to preach boycott of goods or interfere with sale or transport of them.

Offenders against the laws may be flogged.

There is a general indemnity for damage done under the Ordinance.

The Emergency Regulations of 1922, in so far as they have not been specifically altered, are again in force.

It is the duty of every citizen to keep off the streets as far as possible.

ROUND THE LOCAL CINEMAS.

What Mail Reviewers Say.

"THE DEVIL TO PAY."

Willie Hale Ronald Colman
Dorothy Hope Loretta Young
Susan Hale Florence Britton
Lord Leland Frederick Kerr
Mr. Hope David Torrence
Mrs. Hope Mary Forbes
Grand Duke Paul Paul Cavanagh
Arthur Hale Crawford Kent
Ronald Colman, the brilliant British star, has enacted a variation of roles in talkie productions. He was a master detective in "Bulldog Drummond" with Joan Bennett, a society crook in "Raffles" with Kay Francis, and a convict in "Condemned" with Ann Hardig. In his latest starring M-G-M vehicle, "The Devil To Pay" he is seen as the young scapegrace, free and easy going son of a wealthy British Peer, never worrying and always doing right in the eyes of women!

The film, based on a story by Frederick Lonsdale, is most entertaining and is completely void of any sensationalism, thus giving the audience the right atmosphere.

Mr. Colman is delightful. He is so because of his natural acting.

Miss Young, playing opposite in the lead, is attractive and an actress of the sincere type.

Mr. Kerr, who is most suited to peccage roles, carries all honours before him, his peculiar mannerisms in dealing with his "defaulting" son giving scope to spicy humour. The supporting cast all do well.

The story, briefly, is this. Miss Young is engaged to be married to Mr. Cavanagh, but the inevitable third party (Mr. Colman) comes on the scene and spoils everything for the prospective bridegroom, but, incidentally, not for the girl!

It is of interest to mention here that, in order to give the production the essential details of London settings, British customs and speech, Mr. Samuel Goldwyn, the producer, acquired the skilled services of Lady Maureen Stanley. Her co-operation is largely responsible for the success which the film has already attained.

Supporting the programme, Ducl de Kerejarto, in a musical, delights with two violin solos, "Andalusian Romance" and "Spanish Dance." A futuristic featurette, depicting wizardry, is also shown.

From Other Sources.

"MURDER BY THE CLOCK."

Those who have read Rufus King's spine-tingling mystery novel, "Murder by the Clock" and thus learned the identity of the culprit in the last gripping paragraphs will find, when they see the film version of this story, which will be shown at the King's Theatre on Thursday, that a new murderer has taken the place of the original one supplied by the author.

As the real fun of a mystery play is in trying to guess which person is guilty—the name of the criminal will not be disclosed here. Suffice it to say that the culprit on the screen is not the same as the culprit in the original story in fact, the character who committed the fire deed in the novel does not appear in the picture at all.

William Boyd plays the central role of Lieutenant Valcour, the canny sleuth in the story.

"SINNERS' HOLIDAY."

"Sinners' Holiday," the Warner Brothers' and Vitaphone production which opens on Thursday at the Queen's Theatre for a run of three days, brings to the screen a story

MOB LAW IN THE COLONY.

Incidents of Anti-Japanese Trouble.

COURTS CROWDED.

Many Chinese agitators, concerned in the anti-Japanese uprising which has been made so manifest in the Colony, and which has called for strict precautions on the part of the Police, were dealt with by both Mr. W. Schofield and Mr. E. H. Williams in the Central Police Courts on Saturday. In most proved cases, the maximum penalty was imposed, whilst numerous juveniles were ordered to receive a flogging.

During the proceedings, it was mentioned by Detective-Sub-Inspector C. Rozeskyw that the Police were greatly harassed in charging the agitators, in that the Japanese shop-owners, who had their windows damaged, were afraid to come to Court to give testimony. The Japanese interpreter was also seized.

Huge slabs of broken shop windows, a portion of a damaged door, and bricks, varying in sizes, were some of the exhibits displayed in Court.

The seating accommodation in both Courts was taxed to the utmost capacity, mostly by Chinese.

Bail for Student.

Before Mr. Williams, a Chinese student, stated to have recently returned from Mexico, was charged with distributing anti-Japanese pamphlets. Mr. M. K. Lo appeared for the defence.

Detective-Sergeant Fitches said that another man in connection with the same case had since been arrested, and would in all probability appear before a novel in plot and locale.

Adapted from the stage hit by Marie Baumer, "Sinners' Holiday" shows the inside workings of a modern Coney Island, graphically depicting the lives of those in that raucous byway of the amusement world.

Grant Withers is seen as a smart-cracking barker with a shady past who is falsely accused of murder, while Evelyn Knapp, New York stage star who makes her screen debut in this film, plays the role of the girl who sacrifices her own brother to save her sweetheart.

"FORBIDDEN ADVENTURE."

Sinclair Lewis, Nobel prize winner for literature, and author of "Let's Play King," the humorous novel of a child screen star which, filmed under the title, "Forbidden Adventure," is being screened at the King's Theatre, is often as gay as he is serious.

There are two sides to Lewis, according to his closest friends. One is his personal side, and the other is his public side.

"Don't you understand," Lewis recently said, "that it's mission in life to be the despised critic, the fault finder? I must carp and scold until everyone despises me. That's what I was put here for."

But the witty author of "Main Street," "Babbitt" and other similar works has produced as his first effort since winning the Nobel Award, a penetrating story of childhood, the humorous story tale of a child screen star. Critics were amazed at this departure from his iconoclastic theme.

The cast of "Forbidden Adventure" includes Mitz Green, Edna May Oliver, Louise Fazenda and Jackie Searl.

Magistrate to-day. Accused was remanded on bail of $750.

Another Chinese was fined $250, or three months' hard labour in default, for handing out papers of an inciting nature at Stanley Street.

There is not the slightest excuse for ruffians or hooligans like you doing this," remarked his Worship in imposing a similar penalty on another Chinese, who, according to a Sergeant, was seen waving a stick in his hand and shouting in a crowd at Des Voeux Road Central.

Crowd at Macao Wharves. In another case, also heard by Mr. Williams, Traffic Sergeant Brittain said that on receipt of a message in Victoria Street he proceeded on his motor cycle to the Macao wharves, where a large crowd had gathered and were throwing stones. He arrested accused after he (accused) had hurled two stones, one after the other. A fine of $250, with the alternative of three months' hard labour, was imposed.

In charging a youth, Sub-Inspector Chester-Woods said that the accused was in the forefront of an angry mob who were pursuing three Japanese sailors and throwing bricks at them in Des Voeux Road West. Accused was taken into custody by P. C. Harris, of the Royal Naval Yard Police.

The Magistrate (to accused)—"It is people like you who are causing the trouble."

Accused was ordered to receive twelve strokes of the cane, and to be kept in Police custody for three days, after which he is to be sent back to his own country.

A Chinese student was charged before Mr. Schofield with having obstructed the Police, and with disorderly conduct. He pleaded not guilty.

A Baton Charge.

In evidence, Sergeant F. Nolan said that at about 8.10 p.m. on Wednesday, he was on picket patrol in Johnston Road. When passing Luard Road, an angry crowd began to stone them. A baton charge was made and the crowd dispersed. Accused approached the Sergeant and asked, in English, "Why do you send me off the reclamation?" At that time the situation was rather bad.

His Worship said he thought it was a case where a fine might be imposed and not a prison sentence.

Addressing the accused, Mr. Schofield said—"In future, you must remember to keep away from riots like that which took place the night before last. You are a student—you must not get mixed up with hooligans—people who are stoning the Police. I am not going to make it very bad for you. I will fine you $50 or one month's hard labour."

Two Chinese were charged with disorderly conduct in West Point. They denied the allegations.

Grocer's Door Kicked.

A Chinese detective's testimony to Mr. Schofield was to the effect that the accused both kicked the door of the Wing Kee Grocery at 227 Queen's Road West, stating that the shop sold Japanese piece goods. On the way to the Police Station, the detectives were pelted at by a mob numbering over 1,000.

First accused said that he was pushed on to the pavement and fell down near a pillar. He was then arrested by the Police. He had a foki who witnessed the affair.

Second accused stated that he had come from the country to buy oil. He admitted having banged his hands on the shop's doors, which were bolted from inside. He was, at the same time, advising the crowd not to break the store!

His Worship sentenced second accused to three months' hard labour, whilst the first was remanded to this afternoon, when his defence will be heard.

On charges of disorderly conduct and stone throwing a man and two youths pleaded not guilty.

Attempted Rescue of Boys. Detective-Sergeant Meadows said that he had the greatest difficulty in trying to prevent the crowds that had gathered from rescuing the two boys.

Inspector W. R. MacWalter related that, near the Cheung Chau Ferry wharf, he was battered with missiles thrown from an enormous crowd. The man was shouting "ta, ta" and urging the mob on. On getting closer to the Police Station, he became bolder and approached the Inspector. The latter drew his revolver, and the man, being afraid to run away, was thus caught.

His Worship ordered the youths to receive 12 strokes of the cane each, whilst the man was sent to jail for three months with hard labour.

Another youth, who was arrested near the Ko Shing Theatre with three stones in his possession, was ordered to receive ten strokes.

Stones at Constable.

A Chinese youth, who threw stones at an Indian Police constable on Friday night, paid the penalty with ten strokes of the cane.

Charged with throwing stones to the danger of the public, a Chinese pleaded not guilty.

Leading Seaman Stiers, of H.M. submarine Proteus, said that on Wednesday night he was walking along Johnston Road when he saw a Police Picket being stoned by a crowd on the reclamation. He came up behind the accused and caught him in the act of throwing a missile.

Accused, in stating that he was employed at a tailor's shop, said that he had gone out to collect clothing that night.

Sentence of three months' hard labour was passed.

Malicious Damage. When a case against a Chinese, charged with causing malicious damage, was mentioned, the broken slabs of the shop window of Shimoto's jewellery and watch shop, 64, Johnston Road, were placed on the table along with five bricks of various sizes and shapes.

P. C. Drewery said that on Wednesday night, at about 7.45 o'clock, on receipt of a message asking for help, in company with Police-Sergeant Goddard, he proceeded to Ship Street where a fight was in progress. He saw the accused hurling bricks at Shimoto's shop window, and, in fact, the Police officers had to get under cover owing to the heavy stone throwing.

In order that the Japanese complainant might appear in Court, his Worship adjourned the proceedings to next Saturday.

INDIAN JUNIORS WIN.

Cricket of a comparatively high local standard was witnessed in the drawn game between F. E. Lawrence's XI and S. Jex's XI at the Kowloon Cricket Club on Saturday.

Lawrence's team batted first and received quite a good start. F. S. W. Smith, the K.C.C. regular second eleven player, who is reputed to be very reliable with the bat, played a really fine innings. In his brilliant and spectacular innings of 100 runs, he gave only two chances of being caught and they proved to be very difficult ones. He eventually retired with just a century. He hit no fewer than 17 boundaries, most of which were the outcome of forceful driving on both sides of the wicket.

Shek Kam-pui Wins
Annual Event.

THREE DIFFERENT CLASSES.

Twenty-one men, eleven ladies and six boys took the water for the annual harbour race organised by the Chinese Bathing Club yesterday afternoon. The first man home was Shek Kam-pui of the Chinese Yacht Club. He covered the distance in 34.2 mins. He was followed by Chan Fuk-shing of the Fukien A.A., and Yeung Yin-wah of the South China A.A. as third. Miss Yeung Sau-king, of the South China A.A., the noted Chinese lady swimmer, won the ladies' race with her sister, Miss Yeung So-sun second. Miss Leung Wing-han was third. The boys' prize went to Mak Wai-ming of the Chinese Civil Servants' Club.

RUGBY FOOTBALL IN KOWLOON.

White Beat Colours in K.B.S.F.P.A. Trial.

The K.B.S.F.P.A. (Rugby section) held their first full-time practice match at King's Park on Saturday, and a very good game under the existing circumstances was witnessed. Once a number of the newcomers to the game grasp the elementary rules of forward play a very useful fifteen will be on view.

The Whites defeated the Colours by a goal and two tries (11 points) to nil after a fast game, considering the great heat experienced during the first-half.

RING SEATS.

New York, Sept. 18.
Mr. Johnson, the promoter, without so much as blushing, announced to-day that ringside tickets for the fight on October 1 between Jack Sharkey and Primo Carnera will sell for $15.75 each.
Sports writers here ridicule the prices asked by Mr. Johnson for a Sharkey-Carnera fight but they admit that as long as he has pushed the gargantuan Goidoller as far as a fight with the Boston Gob he may be able to draw a capacity crowd at even higher prices.

CCELERITY PAYS WELL.

The Eighth Extra Race Meeting at Happy Valley on Saturday was well supported and from every point of view an entire success. Enjoyable sport was provided throughout the afternoon, and the Band of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, which was in attendance, rendered pleasing selections of music. This lent much to the success of the afternoon.

Hong Kong, Monday, Sept. 28, 1931.

An Irksome Duty.

Great tribute must be paid to the rank and file of the Police Force for the manner in which they coped with the disturbances in the Colony during the past five days. All have been called up to work intermittently and at extremely high pressure. Their duty has been irksome and distasteful, but they have come out of the ordeal with flying colours and with the prestige of their Force higher than ever. The European section are to be warmly commended for the very able manner in which they have responded to the needs of very trying circumstances and sought to curb the misplaced activities of the hooligans responsible for a situation of emergency which is rightly deprecated not alone by all right-thinking sections of the community but also by the authorities in Canton. Numerous have been the occasions within the past few days in which the Police have exhibited real heroism in the face of overpowering odds, in spite of which the number of Police casualties has been remarkably low.

The splendid work of the European Police has been supplemented to a most gratifying degree alike by the Indian and Chinese units of the Force. The latter, in particular, have had a most embarrassing situation confronting them in view of the fact that their energies have had to be opposed to the worst hooligan elements amongst their own compatriots. With a praiseworthy display of loyalty to their superiors and actuated by a keen desire to uphold the vital tenets of law and order, they have proven their sterling worth to the whole Colony in a time of difficulty and trial.

In due course, when calmer feeling prevails and the forces of hooliganism have been totally eliminated, an opportunity should be taken by our civilian leaders to make some public recognition of the duty so ably performed by the rank and file of the Police Force—European,

Indian, and Chinese—and to demonstrate the genuine appreciation and gratitude of the whole Colony.

Of the anti-Japanese position itself to-day we have no intention of adding to the comments already made in this column—comments that have been endorsed in their entirety by all who sincerely deprecate the regrettable display of hooliganism. The Government has issued a proclamation bringing the Colony under Sections 7 to 14 of the Emergency Regulations Ordinance. The armoured car company of the Volunteers has been called out for actual military service, and the segregation of the Japanese residents has been practically completed. All these measures must be welcomed and, it goes without saying, will receive the practical co-operation of every law-abiding and peace-loving citizen of every race.

Mail Commentary.

Kingsford-Smith.

We understand that there is something more than a natural desire on Air-Commodore C. E. Kingsford-Smith's attempt to better Mr. Mollison's recent record flight from Australia to England. It is said that he desires especially to have a heart to heart talk with Imperial Airways in London with the hope of securing a share at least of the India-Australia extension when, and if, it is carried on. At the present time he has a fleet of modern machines and a highly trained staff idle in Sydney because he has had to close down his Australian internal service.

Noise.

Music, we are told, is the sound which one's own children make as they romp through the house. And noise is the sound which other people's children make under the same circumstances.

In the same way the screeching of motor omnibus brakes may be music to owners and drivers, but noise, exasperating noise, to those in front of whose homes these mammoth-like vehicles draw up.

We sympathise with those residents of Nathan road who are so exasperated. They will not be content, we are sure, with the replies of omnibus owners and proprietors to the complaints made through the Kowloon Residents' Association. But, then, of course, they are not omnibus owners!

Here is a field of investigation for local motor engineers. Business is slack so they can well spend the time. Let them set about finding a silent brake. Nathan road residents may be expected to express their gratification by perpetuation in marble of the engineer who is first in the market with such a brake.

As we are on the subject of noise, may we also suggest to Star Ferries that they seek to eliminate that dreadful discordant bang repeated umpteen times a day at the Hong Kong and Kowloon landing stages by the lowering of their gangways. A rubber pad on the underside of each gangway would deaden the noise very considerably. And rubber is cheap to-day.

From Other Pens.

Accumulations of oyster shells have been found in the kitchen middens of the Neolithic Age.

Sallust writing in 50 B.C. remarked that "Poor Britons there is some good in them after all—they produce an oyster."

In the declining years of the Roman Empire slaves were sent to the coasts of the Atlantic to gather oysters for Roman feasts.

British oysters used to be taken to Rome by sea packed in sacks of snow.

The Kentish and Essex oysters were regarded by William the Conqueror as more preferable to those of France.

According to Pliny, Sergius Orata was the first man in the West to establish oyster preserves, but long before he built his artificial oyster beds on Lake Lucrinus, the Chinese had mastered the art of oysticulture.

It is believed that the oyster is hermaphrodite, and that during the breeding season an individual oyster may change its sex several times over. The same oyster may produce spermatozoa at one time and ova at another, but never both together; nor is it able to fertilise itself.

Oysters cannot live in water less than 3 per cent. salt. Also it is necessary that the water covering the oysters should be deep enough to shelter them from the direct rays of the sun.

The mature oyster is not generally considered ripe for plucking until four or five years old.

During the War, British oysters died from the effects of dumped explosives, but oil from ships does not seem to injure them.

A heavy fall of rain, because it alters the nature of the water, causes death to numbers of oysters.

The Cantonese seldom eat oysters raw. They say they are too cold for the stomach.

Oyster sauce applied externally is sometimes used by ladies to soften the skin and remove freckles.

There are said to be four varieties of oyster found in Kwongtung, which are indigenous to Europe.

Oysters have many enemies. There are several kinds of whelks which batten on them, a fish, a coarse grass and a sponge which also play havoc with oyster beds.

Cantonese maintain there is only one variety, the Ho.

Chinese connoisseurs consider the Sha Cheng oyster the best flavoured.

News in Brief.

The lowest open air temperature yesterday was 79 degrees. The humidity at 10 a.m. was 80 and at 4 p.m. 79.

It is notified, at the Harbour Office, that H.M.S. Seaweed will carry out full calibre 3-inch bombardment practice at Sam Chau to-morrow, commencing at 10 a.m.

The total output of the Kallan Mining Administration's mines for the week ending September 12 amounted to 118,637 metric tons, and the sales during the same period to 84,977 metric tons.

The London Chamber of Commerce has requested members to furnish the names of foreign suppliers, some of whom refused to deliver goods under contract for payment in pounds sterling unless buyers were prepared to meet the difference in exchange, says a Reuter cablegram.

Personal Pars.

The forthcoming marriage is announced of Eric Sweet, engineer, s.s. Chengtu, and Martha Ramshaw, of 157, Bullock Road, Wellington Quay, en route to the Colony on the s.s. Naldora.

NOT SO BAD.

Shy in Presence of Mystery.

A MOTHER'S PRIDE.

Percy's illness wasn't taken very seriously by his friends at first; we all used to find him "looking better," and we could assure his mother that he seemed to be more like himself. The doctor wouldn't let him get up until the lung functioned normally; that, it was understood, might be expected any day, but a good many days passed. When I went to visit him his mother kept watch and met me at the foot of the stairs. She was afraid that I might let myself out without seeing her.

We try to vary our formulas; the poor lady alternated between "How did you find him to-day?" and "Do you think he seems better?" I did my best; I tried to be normal and vaguely encouraging and to hold all deeper expressions of sympathy in leash. But there was an impalpable growth of timidity, of embarrassment, between us. The old questions met with the old responses, but in our hearts we knew there was a difference. And the fear grew in me that she or I would blurt out something, that our preferences would be thinner and thinner until—! I could almost imagine her accusing me. Was it not a case too grave for deception?

Effusively Reassuring.

Yes, I wanted to get out quietly, but there she was. Eyeing me, she said: "It's a long time." Merely that, but it startled me, and, in apprehension, I became effusively reassuring. I put a good face on it and tried to believe what I said. She seemed to be relieved.

And with him, upstairs, my relations had undergone a gradual change. He had been apt to make jaunty references to death when it seemed far away, but now he paid it the respect of silence. Good-natured as he was, he had not always suppressed the facile cynicisms of youth; he had grumbled a little sometimes, spotting himself as the victim of circumstances; said a few carelessly ungenerous things—mere casual effusions from one who had not learnt to watch himself.

But now there was an alteration. He became more careful with me, more punctilious in acknowledgments; he insisted on the respect due to my age and position; he spoke handsomely of his contemporaries. He had always been tender and affectionate with his mother, but now I had to listen to expressions of gratitude that were solemn, almost formal. No longer was there the shadow of complaint.

Realised He Was Dying.

And so it came to me that the poor lad had realised that he was dying and that it was up to him to die in style. It was all that was left for him now, and he bore himself gallantly. One might surmise that he had secret tremors, apprehensions, but the surface was impeccable. Percy was upheld by the public-school spirit.

For a time it was an open secret between us. One is not adequate for such an occasion. We were both shy in the presence of the mystery. I might have followed his lead, but I couldn't thrust speculative ideas on him at such a moment. I didn't know his "views," or, indeed, whether he had any. We were outside the region of comfort; ecstasy was more possible. And then he began to talk about his death simply, as a matter of course.

The last time—and we seemed to know it was the last time—he was very feeble, and it seemed useless to bother him any more with affairs of this world. I wondered whether he had said the right things, the nice things, to his mother; I knew she would like to hoard up little details in the years to come; I, too, was conscious of the desire that he should round off everything as he would wish. But now there was no more to be done, no more to be said. With me protest, incredulity, interrogation, had died down; it was no longer exciting to watch the boy die; I was deeply depressed. I had to go; for even when your friends are dying you have to go, and I spoke casual words, avoiding the portentous. We gazed at one another; I hesitated; I reached the door. And then he said leaning forward, I just heard him—"It's not as bad as you think." I nodded and left him.

Waiting as Usual.

When I got downstairs she was waiting as usual. For some time we had said little to one another; never the great word. I think she was still looking for a miracle. This day she saw that I was not

CENTRAL POLICE COURTS.

Busy Morning for Magistrates.

DETERRENT SENTENCES.

The Central Police Courts this morning were again crowded with interested Chinese spectators. Many more hostile Chinese agitators, concerned in the rioting, arrested over the week-end, were dealt with by Mr. W. Schofield and Mr. Williams, respectively.

The maximum penalty imposed was three months' hard labour but in some instances, an optional fine of $250 was allowed. Youths were ordered to be flogged, and kept in Police custody for a couple of days.

Stone Thrower.
A Chinese who threw stones at a picket who was dispersing a crowd which had gathered outside a shop in West Point, was sent to jail for three months. Inspector MacWalter said that the man was chased to the roof of a house in North Street and arrested by an Indian constable.

Unlawful Society.

Four Chinese men, of the better class, were brought before Mr. Schofield, on bail of $500 each, charged with being concerned in an unlawful society. Mr. Horace Lo appeared for the defence. It was mentioned by Det-Inspector Carey, for the prosecution that a big pile of documents were seized, and it would be some little time before they could be translated. His Worship granted a week's formal remand.

Firing of a Gun.

Inspector MacWalter charged a man with disorderly conduct and discharging a firearm to the danger of the public, and three others, two men and a woman with disorderly conduct. He said that the three men belonged to one junk and the woman to another. Yesterday, between 8 and 9 o'clock in the morning, the men's junk arrived at Suiyungun with a cargo of rice. The woman apparently objected to them berthing off Southland Street, and began to throw articles. This soon developed into a nasty row, and on seeing about 30 others going to the assistance of the agitated woman, one of the men, ran into a cabin and bringing out a rifle, fired three shots in the air. No person was injured, luckily. A picket, on duty in the vicinity arrived on the scene and after quelling the disturbance, took both parties to the Police Station. The woman told the Magistrate that the men's boat was sailing towards hers and actually struck her craft. She asked them to use their tender but they refused and began to abuse her. Inspector MacWalter remarked that one of the men had apparently got afraid, hence the firing.

His Worship said that he was not satisfied that the first defendant fired the gun wantonly, and dismissed the charge accordingly. He bound the man over in a bond of $75 each to keep the peace for a year, whilst the woman was bound over in a bond of $150 to keep the peace for the same period. Inspector MacWalter added that the Police seized all firemen on board the junk, in case the people might use them to fire on the Police.

The Magistrate ordered that the guns be kept by the Police for two weeks.

HUTCHINSON AND COMPANY (PUBLISHERS).

After providing for depreciation, net profits for 1930 were £36,160, which compares with £50,853 in the previous year. The Ordinary dividend is maintained at 5 p.c., the balance carried forward being reduced from £16,649 to £12,109. The available profits carried forward of the company, of the companies whose Ordinary shares it holds, and of its subsidiary and associated companies, at the end of 1930 totalled £35,047.

master of myself; when she perceived my agitation the veil between us was rent. She said, "I know; I know." So I spoke of him, of his gallantry and affection, of his promise and his accomplishment; of my admiration of him dying there like a gentleman. It was poor husks of glory to offer to a mother; but I think she had her moment of exultant pride. And I told her what he had said.—A.N.M. In Manchester Guardian.

HERD INSTINCT AND THE FOREIGNER

Deeply Rooted Prejudice. That Yet Persists.

THE UNFRIENDLY BEASTS.

An Amusing Incident in the Antwerp Zoological Gardens.

Strange how deeply rooted is the instinct that the foreigner is an enemy and that anyone or anything that is unusual should be shunned. It dates from ancient, dangerous days and is so strong that it defies and outdoes the desire for change and novelty. We all know persons who would love to have something new but dare not put on a new fashion unless they are quite certain that at least ten thousand other persons will wear something exactly like it. The herd instinct — is deeply rooted not only in man but in the lower animals. How deeply among the beasts I recently saw most amusingly in the Antwerp Zoological Gardens.

Here there is a very large enclosure laid out as a sandy desert scattered with rocks, with a cliff on either side in which are comfortable caves full of straw and fodder. In this pleasant dwelling-place dwell many beasts. There was a herd of some fifteen reindeer. The lordly stag had the biggest head of horns I ever saw on living beast and swayed his unwieldy headgear in fine style. There was a herd, too, of yaks — the shaggy bull a ponderous imposing monster. There was a flock of slim brown llamas, some lively common goats, and five remarkable fat-tailed African sheep, snow white with coal black heads and necks.

All these creatures were mingled together in perfect harmony, here lying and chewing the cud, there begging bread from visitors or picking up the hay heaped for them. The youngsters cattered about, leapt and played, and butted one another frivolously.

The Little Camel.
Suddenly this peace was broken. Two keepers appeared coming along the outer path. They opened the gate of the enclosure and led in a camel — a very tame little brown camel not much more than a babe himself. He was shy and reluctant to join such a party of strangers and hung back. But the keepers urged him in, slipped out of the gate, closed it, and left him. Vainly he begged his human friends not to desert him, and anxiously he trotted alongside of them till they turned the corner and disappeared. Then he — a lonely little stranger — turned to face the old inhabitants.

His advent had had an instantaneous effect upon them. In a moment the animals, who had been all mixed up, sorted themselves out into species and each set took what it considered to be protective measures.

The reindeer, after staring horrified at the new comer, decided that discretion was the better part of valour, and though they formed the biggest herd in the enclosure the does neatly collected their young in front of them and, together with the mighty stag, retired to the farthest corner, leaving the other beasts to face the possible danger.

The black and white sheep made a remarkable display. They drew up in a quite straight line with military precision and all stamped their feet with fine defiance. After waiting a few moments, as the camel took no notice whatever of their demonstration, they all stamped again. Having thus, as it were, spoke their protest to the League of Nations, they too retired cautiously, preserving their military formation. The yaks drew up in a semicircle with the bull at one end and the calves in the middle. They too, stamped and did a good deal of snorting and did not retire, but held a strategic position on some rocks. The llamas, massed together irregularly, did not seem frightened but rather suspicious. Perhaps they recognised the camel as a very distant cousin? The goats kept at a discreet distance and eyed the new-comer inquisitively.

The camel stared for a time with bored contempt at these manoeuvres and then turned to find something of greater interest. In the front part of the enclosure was a fine lime tree in full foliage. Its lower branches had been browsed by the other beasts, but for the long-necked camel there was dainty green-stuffed well within reach. He sauntered beneath the tree and began cropping large mouthfuls. The amazement of the other was comical to see. They all wondered how on earth he managed to do it, and such was their curiosity, that all except the reindeer — came cautiously up to see.

None of them approved, and they showed this by much foot-stamping. But the camel browsed on, regardless of their protests. At last a baby yak, filled with childish curiosity, boldly sallied forth from the yak ranks and approached the camel alone. No one prevented him. All watched his progress. Nearer and nearer he drew, and still the camel browsed. After a pause, the baby decided to approach the camel in the rear and made a large circuit. Finally it arrived so near that by stretching its neck it sniffed the camel's hock. The camel felt the tickling, thought it was a fly, and delivered a mighty backward kick without looking round. It caught the baby yak on his little snout. He fled full speed, and all the other beasts turned and fled too.

Later in the day I found that the bored and lonely camel had eaten every leaf within reach, and was occupying the front of the enclosure in solitary glory. All the other beasts were crowded at the other end.

A few days later the first fear of the camel had worn off, but no one associated with him. If he ate from a hay heap, the other beasts all ate from another. He was not molested and he molested no one, for he was a gentle little camel and liked to be patted by human beings. But he was still to the other beasts a foreigner.

A Frenchman in Sussex.
He reminded me of poor old Frenchman I once knew who settled in a Sussex village in the days when strangers there were a rarity. He had been a theatrical costumer, and explained to me that he had settled in this spot because it was so much like a rustic scene in which peasants had danced in some long forgotten play. He hummed the tune they had sung. To make the scene yet more like he erected an elaborate and beautiful pergola of roses which his neighbours regarded as something uncanny. "Not the way roses had ought to grow." He was quiet and inoffensive, and did his best to tame the Sussex peasants by growing black-currants and making therefrom some excellent Cassis, a glass of which he offered to anyone who called. He made wreaths and nosegays for the children; was a good customer to the local farmers, but — he was always the foreigner — "Munseer."

When I talked French with him and he replied, a ploughboy friend of mine was as much astonished as was the baby yak when the camel browsed the tree. "I'm sure," said he, "it be good of you to talk all that nonsense to him." Nor would he believe that what we spoke was a comprehensible language. "Fancy furniners not knowing how to talk proper," was all he said.

Munseer lived there for years, a lonely life save when friends came from London and he made a little feast and they "all talked nonsense together." He remained to the end a strange beast — the camel in the enclosure.

How long will it be before the League of Nations can overcome the intangible, mysterious, impenetrable wall formed by herd instinct? It is hard to say. But there is room for hope. The IMBROGLIO IN MANCHURIA.

No Settlement Yet Reached.

IN DIRECT OPPOSITION.

Geneva, Saturday.

No fresh developments occurred to-day in the Sino-Japanese conflict, both sides firmly maintaining their positions. The Chinese insist on the appointment of a Commission of Inquiry composed of neutrals appointed by the League Council, while the Japanese, on the other hand absolutely oppose such a course which they declare will only complicate matters.

The Japanese ask: "Why does the Chinese Government abandon the original proposal to the Japanese Minister at Nanking for direct negotiations? Japan has already declared that she is prepared to negotiate a settlement direct with the Chinese Government."

The view held in Chinese circles is that if the request for a Commission of Inquiry is set aside confidence in the League of Nations will be seriously compromised.

It is not expected that the Council will take a final decision before Monday or Tuesday.

Home Press Views.

London, Saturday.

The Times, in an editorial, congratulates the League of Nations on the good work done towards the settling of the Sino-Japanese conflict, and adds that there clearly is danger that the League's action may encourage important factors in China to challenge the internationally recognised rights of the Japanese in South Manchuria.

The Chinese Government will be ill-advised if it mistook sympathy for partisanship and failed to take serious steps to reach a general settlement with Japan.

Japanese Treaty Rights Questioned.

Nanking, Saturday.

Referring to the Japanese War Minister's statement that Japan was entitled to maintain fifteen soldiers per kilometre of the South Manchuria Railway, or a total of 16,500, whereas the actual number was only 14,000, a Foreign Office spokesman today asserted that the Japanese troops already in Manchuria are reported to be in excess by two divisions, this excluding those from Korea and the Japanese Volunteers, the whole aggregating at least 50,000.

The Foreign Office spokesman pointed out that Japan's title is apparently based on Article 1 of the additional articles of the Portsmouth Treaty of 1905, wherein Japan and Russia reserved the right to maintain railway guards not exceeding fifteen per kilometre.

The spokesman also pointed out that while China acquiesced in certain provisions of the Portsmouth Treaty she has never recognised the Treaty as such nor its additional articles.

Moreover, Article 2 of the annex to the Peking Treaty of 1905 stipulates that in the event of Russia withdrawing her railway guards, Japan consents to act similarly. Therefore, since the Russian Guards have all been withdrawn, and Chinese troops have undertaken the protection of the Chinese Eastern Railway, the continuance of Japanese troops in Manchuria is absolutely without legal basis or treaty sanction.

Anxiety on the Yangtze.

Tokyo, Saturday.

With the exception of Harbin apprehension of further developments has been practically removed, but anxiety is increasing over the situation on the Yangtze.

The Minister for the Navy, reporting on the China situation to the Cabinet this morning, is quoted as saying:—

"The districts under Canton and Chang Hsueh-liang are comparatively quiet, but the provinces under the Central Government are becoming increasingly dangerous."

Trains Machine-Gunned.

Peking, Saturday.

A report seems to be confirmed beasts in the enclosure did not fall upon the camel and rend him. The Sussex peasants did not "heave half a brick" at Munseer. They tolerated him.

So, perhaps the first steps towards surmounting the barrier have been taken. Let us hope so. —M. E. Durham.

WEEK-END TROUBLE SERIOUS.

Murder of a Japanese Family.

ANGRY MOBS.

Kowloon, which until Saturday morning, had been practically immune from trouble of a serious nature, was the scene of wanton rioting in the afternoon. By nightfall the position assumed such alarming proportions that the aid of the Military was requisitioned, and squads of soldiers were soon patrolling the streets and assisting the police in keeping order.

Japanese Assaulted in Peking Street.

Early in the afternoon a Japanese was removed to the Kowloon Hospital suffering from a fractured skull. He came by his injury as the result of a fracas with a group of Chinese workmen in Peking Road. Some little time later a Japanese gentleman, who was walking with his wife and a child, one year old, was savagely attacked by an angry mob of Chinese numbering some three thousand. All three were badly beaten up. A baton charge by the police relieved the tension, and the Japanese trio were removed to the hospital.

Canton Road Incident.

A more serious affair, during which ten Japanese were rescued by a patrol of police from Tsim Tsa Tsui, occurred in Canton Road at about 6 p.m. With the aid of a Fire Engine from Mongkok, under the supervision of a European officer, who was slightly injured during the proceedings, the crowd was quickly dispersed, without any serious casualties.

From then on reports of serious rioting rained in thick and fast from the various districts.

Yau-mati Shops Looted.

After several spasmodic outbreaks at Yau-mati, the incensed mob, growing every minute in numbers, turned its attention to Mongkok. Shops and stores in Yau-mati suffered badly at the hands of the pillagers. Japanese goods were thrown out into the street, and huge bonfires lit. At one stage, shortly before 9 p.m., it seemed as though Nathan Road, in the vicinity of the Majestic Theatre, would be attacked, but the police patrols managed to keep the mob at bay.

Shot Fired at Police.

A shot was fired from a revolver somewhere in the vicinity, the bullet going dangerously near to Police Sergeant A. Gascon, of the Police Reserve, and Sergeant Clarke.

Inspector Evans Seriously Injured.

Events then moved rapidly and, in the Mongkok district, the crowd made terrible havoc. Sub-Inspector Evans, in charge of the Mongkok Police Station, was injured, and had to be removed to the Kowloon Hospital, suffering from a wound in the head, caused by a stone thrown by a rioter. Few members of the Police Force escaped without a cut, a bruise or other injury sustained while charging the crowds.

Highlanders on Patrol Duty. Patrols of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders picketed Nathan Road and side streets, and more than once were obliged to charge in order to disperse angry crowds.

Motorists Run the Gauntlet.

The position at Shamshuipo was no better than the neighbouring districts. A crowd of about 5,000 Chinese gathered in Lai Chi Kok Road, and commenced to advance towards the police station. The mob was armed with stone and bamboo. A cordon of soldiers stretched across the road held them up. At this stage, in order to enable a motor-car and a motor-cycle to pass, the soldiers were ordered to charge with fixed bayonets. Running the gauntlet of flying ed from several reliable sources that Japanese aeroplanes machine-gunned at least three trains during the past two or three days carrying refugees from Mukden to Tientsin. One train, on which were foreigners, had two Chinese killed and several others wounded.

Nanking Most Depressed.

Nanking, Saturday. The capital is most depressed at the news of the League of Nations' decision not to take further action in regard to the Manchurian situation. —Reuter.

misses the two vehicles went through the crowd at a terrific speed and luckily came through unscathed, in spite of the down-pour of stones from people on the roofs.

Buses Commandeered.

Buses were commandeered to convey the troops to the threatened areas, also for taking injured men back to the barracks. The I.P.G. (Hon. Mr. E. D. C. Wolfe, C.M.G.) arrived at Yau-mati Police Station at about 10.15 p.m.

Brutal Murder.

Kowloon City fared almost as badly as the central area. Crowds of Chinese moved around, inciting the people to pillage. Strict watch was kept by the police, but, in spite of all precautions, a terrible crime was enacted at Tsang Foo Villas. An incensed mob, numbering over 1,000, attacked one of the houses occupied by Japanese, and gaining admittance, brutally murdered a woman and a man, and seriously injured five children. Several arrests were made in connection with the affair. The crowd was finally dispersed with a baton charge.

Four of the children have since died.

Riot Act Read.

The Kowloon Magistrate (Mr. Fraser) was obliged to read the Riot Act to the crowd.

On the Island.

On the island affairs were fairly serious throughout Saturday, Wanchai being the hotbed of the agitators. During the morning, several ugly incidents took place. A Japanese youth, named M. Sakai, received a nasty wound on the forehead from a stone thrown by a Chinese youth. The youth was captured, and on the way to the Police Station an attempt was made to release him. Fortunately this was frustrated by Sergeant Goldsmith, who was following, and another arrest made.

Shop in Johnstone Road

Ransacked.

A shop was raided in Johnstone Road, and the mob, after tearing down the shutters, proceeded to ransack the premises.

Police Fire on Queen's Road Mob. An angry mob collected in Queen's Road East at about 9.30 p.m. and commenced to stone a Japanese shop. Arriving on the scene the police were compelled to fire on the Chinese who had adopted a threatening attitude.

Firing Has Salutary Effect. Sergeant Harris received a nasty wound on the hand. He fired at a rioter and wounded him. Two shots were also fired by P. C. Drury resulting in the wounding of two Chinese males and a Chinese passer-by who received a bullet in his ankle.

This shooting put an end to all demonstrations in the neighbourhood, and by midnight quiet reigned and there was no sign of disturbance.

CREW SAVED IN TYPHOON.

Annamite Honour to British Subject.

The London Gazette of August 19 announced that the King had granted to Mr. James Ernest Richards his Majesty's Royal licence and authority to wear the Insignia of Chevalier of the Order of the Dragon of Annam. This declaration has been conferred upon Mr. Richards by the Emperor of Annam in recognition of valuable services rendered by him, when master of the s.s. Kiangsu, in rescuing the crew of an Annamite sailing ship which was wrecked in a typhoon in June, 1930.

MARITIME MUSEUM.

Royal Barge Presented by the King.

The King has presented a Royal barge to the National Maritime Museum, Greenwich.
The gift was announced by Admiral Sir George Hope, at the annual general meeting of the Society for Nautical Research, held at the Royal Naval College, Greenwich.

"This barge," the admiral said, "was built, according to tradition, by King William III, for Queen Mary II. 'Shallop,' to employ its original name, is probably the only boat of its kind in the world to-day which is over two centuries old. It is 36ft. in length, and in deference to its age it is not proposed to put it on view until the opening of the Museum affords an appropriate building in which to house it.

"Three times in the last few months the Queen has sent the Museum gifts of Nelson relics collected by herself. Her Majesty has just sent a further gift, an enamelled medallion of Nelson, by the celebrated craftsman, William Tassie, bearing his signature and dated 1806. Her Majesty's knowledge of antiques has thus in a very signal fashion enriched the national collection of Nelson relics.

"Among 350 other gifts the trustees of the National Maritime Museum have been fortunate in receiving relics of Mr. Peypys from the collection of the late Mr. Peypys Cockerell, which recently came under the hammer.
"Samuel Peypys may be described as the father of naval administration, and as such he demands recognition, by the National Maritime Museum just as much as Franklin and Capt. Cook or Collingwood and Nelson.

Letter Books.

"First and foremost there is the portrait of Peypys himself by Sir Godfrey Kneller, painted by him at the zenith of Peypys's career, when he was directing the course of naval administration in the plenitude of his knowledge and experience.

"Best of all, however, is a stout volume, rebound in the early eighteenth century and containing three mysterious letter books. Peypys kept copies of ordinary routine letters in an ordinary book in the ordinary way, but the contents of this volume were not ordinary and were not concerned with routine.
"They were highly confidential and were kept most strictly under lock and key. Forty-seven letters wholly or in part are written in the same shorthand as the diary and have never been deciphered. Three-quarters of the contents of this amazing and enticing volume have yet to be given to the public.

"The Wyllie collection of maritime books has also been secured for the Museum. At the time of his death, Mr. W. L. Wyllie had

No fewer than 3,000 of these, without taking into account the shelf-loads of drawing books fill-hardly a ship of note, hardly a naval occasion between 1870 and 1930 which is not represented in this wonderful collection.

BOAT DRILL TRAGEDY.

Liverpool Seaman Drowned.

A boat drill accident in which one Liverpool seaman lost his life by drowning and another had a narrow escape from a similar fate in a shark-infested sea, was revealed when the motor liner Reina del Pacifico arrived in the Mersey.

George Reeves, of Royston Street, was drowned, and John Stiff, of Kingsley Road, Liverpool was rescued by a life line after he had fallen exhausted into the sea.

The vessel was on its homeward voyage from South America, and when three days out from Bermuda the customary boat drill took place. The boat into which Reeves and Stiff had climbed ran down the slipway, and then for some unknown reason tipped up and the two men were thrown out.

Both managed to grab a rope and were suspended in mid-air for some time. Then being unable to hold on any longer they fell into the sea. Reeves disappeared almost immediately, but Stiff was able to grasp a life-jacket attached to a line and was hauled to safety.

I.P.R. CONFERENCE.

Sino-Japanese Groups May Be Absent.

ALTERNATIVE PROGRAMME.

Shanghai, Saturday.
The conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations scheduled to take place in Shanghai next month, is likely to undergo considerable modification owing to the disturbed Sino-Japanese relations.

It is regarded as most unlikely that the Chinese and Japanese groups will participate, and, therefore, an alternative programme of a less formal character is under consideration.

Final arrangements are subject to the decision of the Pacific Council, which is meeting in Shanghai shortly.—Reuter.

SURGING MOB.

Lindbergh and Two Doctors Attacked.

NARROW ESCAPE.

Nanking, Saturday.
Since their arrival on September 19, Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh have earned the whole-hearted gratitude of the Chinese nation by using their monoplane daily for surveys of the flooded areas in North Kiangsu and the Yangtze Valley.

As the result of his reports to the Flood Relief Commission, Colonel Lindbergh at noon took off with two doctors with medical supplies and vaccines for the purpose of landing at various cities in North Kiangsu, west of Grand Canal.

The first place visited was Hinghwa, 60 miles N.N.E. of Nanking, where the population is living in sampans, there being no dry land within 25 miles.

Pathetic Story.
Colonel Lindbergh related a very pathetic story of how the starving inhabitants, who had been isolated for a month thankfully believing that the monoplane would bring food supplies, in literally hundreds of sampans hastened to the plane.
Seeing the packages, many knelt down, thanking Heaven that food had arrived.

The sampan folk unmalicious-ly mobbed the doctors, who were forced to give up the packages and scramble aboard the monoplane, which was compelled hurriedly to take off to escape serious damage from the surging mob in the boats.—Reuter.

FRENCH AIRMEN.

Distinguished Gathering at Graveside.

ALL NIGHT WATCH.

Paris, Saturday.
After brother officers had watched over the coffin of Lebriz and Mesmin lying in state at Notre Dame all night, the funeral was celebrated by Cardinal Verdier this morning. Around the coffin were grouped the Air Minister, M.
Dumesnil, the President of the Municipal Council, the Military Governor of Paris, Diplomatic Officers and many famous airmen, including Costes, Belloc, Sadi-Cointe, Codos, Le Fevre and Lott, also Francois Coty. The Vice-President of the Aero Club paid a tribute to the dead on behalf of French airmen.—Reuter.

A FINE CONCERT.

I.R.C. Put Up A Good Programme.

LARGE AUDIENCE.

In brilliant moonlight, and amid pretty lit surroundings, the Open Air Concert, given by members of the Indian Recreation Club on Saturday night, was a great success. Over five hundred people were present and enjoyed a good programme.

The main item "Wanted—
A Wife" a farce written, produced and played by talented members of the Club, was most enjoyable.
It told of the efforts of a retired merchant and a young man, seeking the hand of a bashful maid.

The entire cast are to be congratulated on their splendid efforts.
Bill Turner and F. M. d'Arculli provided the programme's measure of mirth, whilst the Hawaiian Serenaders rendered soft, dreamy music, which was very greatly appreciated. A saxophone solo by Bill Rocha went well with the enthusiastic audience. R. M. Omar was most amusing with his imitation of "Cohen on the Telephone"—which provoked much laughter.

Master Abraham, the young violinist, contributed in no small measure to the success of the evening, his numbers being well received.

EARL ORFORD

DEATH OCCURS IN NEW ZEALAND.

THE WALPOLES ANCIENT HOME OF ARISTOCRATS.

Auckland, Yesterday.
The death of the Earl of Orford is announced.—Reuter.

[The late earl was born on July 10, 1854; educated at Eton; served in the Royal Navy and retired with the rank of Lieutenant. He served as Private Secretary to the Commissioner to E. Roumelia, and in a similar capacity served in Egypt.
He was also attached to the Earl of Rosslyn Mission for the marriage of King Alfonso XII of Spain.

The late Earl could trace his descent back to the Walpoles of Walpole of Norfolk, that English family whose name will live forever in the History of England because of the great Sir Robert Walpole.

The first Baron was a younger brother of the great Sir Robert.
Upon the latter's fall the Baron defended Sir Robert's conduct in the House of Commons and elsewhere.
The first Baroncy was conferred in 1723 and the holder was known as Baron Walpole of Walpole. In 1766 the Baron was known as Baron Walpole of Wolterton, and in 1806
the Second Baron (Baron Walpole of Wolterton) was created Earl of Orford.]

Tale of A Safe.

A week's remand was granted in respect of the case against Fan Kwan who was arrested while attempting to open a safe which had been dragged out into Canton Road. Charges of malicious damage and disorderly behaviour were also added.

Disorderly Conduct.

Sergeant Riddell gave evidence against Mak Yan who was fined $250 or three months' hard labour for disorderly conduct at Halphong Road yesterday.

To Be Caned.

Twelve strokes of the cane and a month's hard labour was imposed on Chan Fai-nam for a similar offence.

Insufficient Evidence.

Insufficient evidence was the cause of Sau On being discharged on a count of disorderly behaviour.
The man was alleged to have acted in a suspicious manner while following a police picket.

Disorderly "Boy."

Cheung Chu-tong, employed as a "boy" in a restaurant owned by Mr. Blumenthal, in Nathan Road, was also charged with disorderly behaviour. The defendant asked for his wages, and upon being paid off he went outside the shop, and began to harangue a crowd of Chin-

SHARE SETTLEMENT DAY.

Tone of Market Still Steady.

NOMINAL PRICES.

The official summary of the Stock Exchange issued to-day states:—

Owing to Settlement Day to-day, prices were more or less nominal, but the undertone of the market is steady.

Cantons were on offer at $1,500,
as were H.K. Fires at $1,485.

Steamboats could have been obtained at $27.

Providents (new) were wanted
at $2½.

Humphreys (old) were in demand at $20, as were also the new shares
at $19½.

Ewos were in demand at $15.80.

case, which quickly multiplied, inciting them to break the windows and wreck the shop. He also cried out "Master has a Japanese amah."

Defendant said he asked to be paid off, because the work was too heavy, and denied inciting the crowd. He added he was on good terms with the Japanese amah. A fine of $250 or three months' hard labour was imposed.

Insufficient Evidence.

Attempting to enter No. 40, Ngau Tsui Wai Road at 3.15 a.m. on Saturday, Lam Chun, was arrested by a Police Officer from Kowloon City Station. The house was occupied by two Chinese ladies who raised an alarm. He was discharged owing to insufficient evidence.

LAUNCH CREW SUE FOR WAGES.

there was no justification for the dismissal of the others. There was not even any evidence that they were on the launch at the time.

Nor could it be shown that even the coxswain and engineer were there. It was admitted that Mr.
Taylor did not go aboard after the launch berthed, to find out.

If the men had been brought into a Criminal Court on charges of larceny there was no evidence to convict them. This was admitted by defendants.

Willful Disobedience.

Mr. Macnamara replied that he based his contention on two grounds. One was willful disobedience in going where they had been distinctly told not to; the other was the crew were guilty of dishonesty. His clients were quite convinced on this point. They considered the dismissal justified.
In any case, he (counsel) would press the issue of willful disobedience.

He also thought there had been sufficient reasonable admission of dishonesty.

His Lordship thought it could be assumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, that the crew were aboard.

After further discussion, Mr.
Rendall decided to call his witnesses, and the coxswain was put in the box.
